

A PROPOSAL FROM RSPKT · OCTOBER 2026

It comes in waves.

A new audazzio.com that explains Live QR in one minute, lets anyone try it on their own phone, and turns every inquiry into a graded lead. Built in WordPress and Elementor.

— LIVE QR™ SECOND-SCREEN TECHNOLOGY —

It comes in waves.

Audazzio hides inaudible signals inside the sound of a broadcast or live event. Every phone that hears one shows the right content at the exact moment. No scanning, no searching.

Nine pages. One story, scattered.

- The idea takes a while to find. What Audazzio does is spread across Live QR, Broadcasters, Teams & Leagues, Sponsors and Applications.
- The demo is hidden. audazzio.com/demo is linked from nowhere, its steps are pictures of text, and it asks a phone visitor to scan a code on their own phone.
- Every button goes to one form. Book a Demo and Contact Sales open the same five fields: no company, no phone, nothing that tells a network from a student.
- The proof is buried. NBC Sports, USA Swimming and the Navy All-American Bowl sit as downloads on a Resources page.

One minute to get it.

The home page tells the story in the order a visitor needs it, and every section answers one question.

- 0:05

What is it? It comes in waves: inaudible signals in the sound of a broadcast or event put the right content on phones. No scanning.
- 0:15

How does it work? Embed, play, deliver, with a diagram that plays the three steps.
- 0:30

Can I see it? Try Audazzio now, right on the page.
- 0:45

Does it work? NBC Sports, USA Swimming, 74% microphone opt-in, the press.
- 1:00

What next? Join the Wave.

Six pages instead of nine: Home, Live QR, Solutions, Newsroom, About and Join the Wave, plus Try Audazzio and Privacy. Every old address is redirected.

COMCAST NBCUNIVERSAL SPORTSTECH

Built in the room where sport meets tech.

Audazzio is a product of the 2021 inaugural Comcast NBCUniversal SportsTech Accelerator, one of ten companies selected from over 1,000 applicants.

SINCE SPORTSTECH, THE COMPANY HAS

- A defined, deliberate company focus
- New investors, including Comcast and Boomtown
- Extensive scientific research in acoustics and ultrasonic signaling, leading to the first of multiple patent applications
- A retooled marketing strategy and the rebrand to Audazzio
- A successful Audazzio trial during the Tour de France

Hairline dashes that move like sound, after klyro.security. A frequency curtain glows over the home page, wave lines breathe and carry an orange signal pulse, signal emitters ring out, and on the Live QR page a spectrum shows the inaudible top band as the one thing in colour. Drawn live, paused when off screen, held still for anyone who asks for less motion.

It's like a QR code. No one has to scan it.

— HOW IT WORKS —

It's like a QR code. No one has to scan it.

Audazzio uses inaudible micro-signaling, embedded in the audio of a broadcast or live event, to deliver content to fans' phones the moment it matters.

01 · EMBED

02 · PLAY

03 · DELIVER

01 Embed

We embed an inaudible micro-signal in the audio of your broadcast, stream or venue sound.

02 Play

03 Deliver

— STEP BY STEP —

From the speaker to the screen.

The same seven steps run at home and in the stands. Only the speaker changes.

Broadcast Live event

01 The viewer's phone microphone is on

02 The TV speakers send out an embedded micro-signal

03 The phone's microphone hears the micro-signal

04 The TV speakers and the phone connect

05 The signal asks the phone to load a preset URL

06 The Audazzio® cloud directs the phone to the desired content

07 The viewer sees the content on their phone

Three steps on the home page (embed, play, deliver) with a diagram that plays them. Seven steps on the Live QR page with a switch between Broadcast and Live event, then a canvas of what phones can show, straight answers to the questions people ask, and the explainer film.

Speakers on. Phone out.

- A push-style notification slides in on the home page: Try Audazzio now.
- Four steps: open the listener on your phone (a QR code from a computer, nothing to download), allow the microphone, speakers on, press play.
- Pick a demo: rugby sevens or USA Swimming, from today's hidden demo page. Its Formula 1 clip is left out: the rights holder blocks it on other sites.
- No phone handy? The phone beside the player shows what would land.

Every inquiry, qualified and graded.

Join the Wave is one tap away on every page, in the header and in a bar at the foot of the screen, and opens a four-step form: who (name, position, company, phone, email), what (organization, uses, details), scale (audience, frequency, budget, timing, role) and send. Every answer carries points: the site grades A to D on the server and names the engagement, like Broadcast partnership · Enterprise scale. The team gets an email, an inbox with statuses and notes, a CSV export, and the same lead in HubSpot if you want it there. The questions, the points and the grade lines can be changed in WordPress.

- Four case studies up front, each with its numbers: 74% microphone opt-in, +200% app downloads, +145% app open rate.
- A grey logo carousel of the companies Audazzio has worked with and been featured by.
- A newsroom with every release as a clean PDF, filtered by case study, press release, award and coverage.

Better portraits. Shorter bios.

Six portraits cut out and set on one backdrop, so the team looks like a team. A one-line summary on each card, the full biography and its highlights one click away, and a link to each person’s LinkedIn.

WordPress and Elementor, made for the team.

Every section is an Audazzio widget in Elementor: 21 kinds, from the hero to the form. Headlines, pictures, films and people are fields to fill, not code. News, case studies and logos are one list each: add a press release once and every page that shows news has it. The inbox, the form’s questions and points, and the settings (the listener link, the demo clips, the popup and notification text, where inquiries go, HubSpot) live under one Audazzio menu.

Built for the thumb.

- The header folds into a full-screen menu; Join the Wave sits at the foot of the screen.
- On a phone, Try Audazzio opens the listener in one tap and asks for a second screen to play the demo.
- The form is one question group at a time, with big targets.
- Every section reflows, nothing scrolls sideways.

What is ready, and what we need from you.

READY

- All copy from today's site and the case studies
- Four case studies with their PDFs
- Eight press releases as clean PDFs
- Leadership, board and LinkedIn
- The listener and the demo clips
- Redirects from every old address

PLACEHOLDERS

- Films: today's YouTube videos, until the new ones arrive
- Demo clips on YouTube (an MP4 keeps the signal safest)
- Portraits from today's site, low resolution for four people
- Press logos from public sources

FROM YOU

- The new films and the demo files
- Higher-resolution portraits
- Hosting and domain access (DNS on Route 53)
- HubSpot access, if leads should land there
- Your counsel's yes before Live QR™ becomes ®
- A privacy policy line about the microphone

One price. Everything here.

THE NEW AUDAZZIO.COM

$23,500

Design, build and launch, fixed.

Additional support is available if needed: updates, new pages, films and campaigns after launch, on request.

- Design and build in WordPress and Elementor: the theme, the Audazzio plugin and 21 editable sections
- The wave motion system across the site
- Try Audazzio now: the notification, the player, the listener steps and the demo picker
- Join the Wave: the four-step form, grading, inbox, email alerts and the HubSpot connection
- Content moved over: copy, case studies, press releases, leadership and board, redirects
- Launch on your hosting and domain, the site guide, and a walkthrough with your team

Live in 5 to 7 business days.

Counted from the day we receive your existing hosting and domain credentials.

Day 1

Access and backup. Hosting, the domain's DNS (Route 53) and a full backup of today's site.

Days 2 and 3

Build on your host. WordPress, Elementor, the theme and plugin, content, email delivery and HubSpot.

Day 4

Test everything. Every page on phones and desktops, the form end to end, redirects and speed.

Day 5

Go live. The DNS switch, with your email records left untouched.

Days 6 and 7

Settle in. Checks after launch, fixes, and the handover with your team.

NEXT

Walk through it. Then tell us what to change.

- 01 See it. The preview is live at audazzio-rspkt.vercel.app, on a phone and on a desktop.
- 02 Mark it up. Words, pictures, what is missing, what should go.
- 03 Hand us the keys. Hosting, the domain, HubSpot, the new films.
- 04 Launch. On audazzio.com, 5 to 7 business days later.
