

How to run the new site.

For the Audazzio team: where things are, what looks after itself, and what to do when something needs changing.

Live QR Solutions Newsroom About

Try it

— LIVE QR™ SECOND-SCREEN TECHNOLOGY —

It comes in waves.

Audazzio hides inaudible signals inside the sound of a broadcast or live event. Every phone that hears one shows the right content at the exact moment. No scanning, no searching.

Six pages, one minute.

The preview is at audazzio-rspkt.vercel.app. It is a copy of the front of the site for looking at; the real site runs on WordPress, where the inbox and the settings are.

Home	It comes in waves, three steps, Try Audazzio now, why second screens, films, who it is for, case studies, press, Join the Wave.
Live QR	How the technology works: the seven steps for broadcast and live events, what phones can show, numbers, questions, the explainer, how we work.
Solutions	Broadcasters, teams and leagues, sponsors and brands, and everything beyond sport, with jump links.
Newsroom	Case studies, then every press release, award and article, with filters.
About	The SportsTech story, leadership, the board, quotes, how we work.
Join the Wave	The four-step form. Also opens from every Join the Wave button.
Try Audazzio	The demo on its own page: audazzio.com/try , for cards and emails.
Privacy	The privacy policy, with the PDF.

Old addresses still work: /liveqr, /broadcasters, /teams-leagues, /sponsors-brands, /applications, /resources-audazzio, /about-0-0, /contact, /demo and /explainer go to their new pages.

Start at the Audazzio menu.

- 01 Go to the site’s address followed by /wp-admin and sign in.
- 02 In the left menu, Audazzio holds the Inbox (every Join the Wave inquiry), the three shared lists (News, Case studies, Logos), Settings and the Join the Wave form.
- 03 Pages lists the eight pages. Hover one and choose Edit with Elementor to change it. The Search and sharing box beside a page sets the title and description Google and link previews show.
- 04 Media holds every picture, film and PDF you upload.

Every lead, already graded.

A • Priority Strong fit, real scale, a near date. Call within one business day. Grade A inquiries can also go to a second address (Settings).

B • Qualified Good fit. Book a discovery call.

C • Nurture Early or small. Send the case studies and stay in touch.

D • Early Exploring. Answer the question and add to updates.

- The grade comes from the answers: organization, what they want to do, audience, events a year, budget, timing, their part in the decision, plus a work email and a detailed description. Visitors never see it. Audazzio > Join the Wave form changes the questions, the answers and their points, the A, B and C lines, the step names and the thank-you lines.
- Each inquiry is also named: Broadcast partnership · Enterprise scale, Sponsor campaign, Live event activation · Single event.
- Open one to read every answer and its points, set a status (new, contacted, meeting booked, proposal sent, won, closed) and keep notes. Export CSV downloads the list.

Change these without us.

Join the Wave Where inquiries are emailed, a second address for grade A, and the HubSpot portal and form IDs (optional: every inquiry is also sent there).

Try Audazzio The phone listener link, App Store and Google Play links if an app is published, the demo clips (YouTube or MP4) and their names, the poster, the popup’s headline, steps and phone note, and the notification on the home page.

Company LinkedIn, the privacy policy link, and the email, phone and location shown on the Join the Wave page.

Footer and bar The lines under the logo, the trademark sentence, and the line in the Join the Wave bar.

Each box says what an empty box does: an optional one shows nothing, a few go back to their default. For email to arrive reliably, the host needs an email delivery plugin (for example WP Mail SMTP with your Microsoft 365 account). We set it up at launch.

Every section is a widget.

- 01 Open a page with Edit with Elementor.
- 02 Click any section. Its fields open on the left: the small line, the headline, the text, buttons, pictures, and lists such as case studies, logos or people.
- 03 In a headline, a new line starts a new line on the page, and asterisks set words in the lighter grey: It's like a QR code. *No one has to scan it.
- 04 Add a section from the Audazzio group in the widget list: 21 kinds, from the hero to the form. Drag to reorder.
- 05 Press Publish. The change is live at once.

News, logos, people and films.

A press release	Audazzio > News > Add new: the headline, the kind, the date (or just the month), the source, one line and the link or PDF. The Newsroom lists it and the home page shows the latest four, at once.
A case study	Audazzio > Case studies > Add new: partner, headline, year, where it played, a picture, up to two results (number what it counts) and the PDF. It shows wherever case studies do.
A logo	Audazzio > Logos > Add new: the company and the logo (transparent PNG or SVG; the site turns it grey and sizes it to match). Order sets its place in the carousel.
A person	People widget (Leadership or Board): name, title, portrait (4:5, about 1200 × 1500, person centred), one-line summary, full biography, highlights, LinkedIn.
A new film	Films widget: a YouTube link or an MP4 from Media, a title, a label and a poster. Today's films are placeholders for the new ones.

Speakers on. Phone out.

- There is no Audazzio app in the stores today, so phones listen in the browser through Audazzio's web listener (the page today's /demo sends people to). In a live deployment the same listening runs inside a partner's app, like the USA Swimming app. The listener link is in Settings; the QR code and the button follow it.
- If an Audazzio app is published, paste its App Store and Google Play links in Settings and the buttons appear beside the listener. The popup's headline and steps, and the notification's text, are in Settings too; the Try sections on the home page and /try show the same steps.
- The demo clips must carry the signal in their soundtrack. YouTube re-encodes sound and can strip high frequencies: an MP4 uploaded to Media is the safer home for the real demo.
- Test after any change: a phone with the listener open, a laptop playing the demo, volume up. The phone should ding and show new content.

Five to seven business days.

Counted from the day we receive your hosting and domain credentials.

Day 1	Access to hosting and the domain’s DNS (Route 53), and a full backup of today’s site.
Days 2 and 3	WordPress, Elementor, the theme and the plugin on your host; content, email delivery and HubSpot.
Day 4	Every page on phones and desktops, the form end to end, redirects, speed.
Day 5	The DNS switch. Email (Microsoft 365) records are left untouched, and audazz.io keeps serving the listener.
Days 6 and 7	Checks after launch, fixes, and the walkthrough with your team.

Before launch, from you: the new films and the demo files; higher-resolution portraits for Roy, Michele, Greg and Larry; HubSpot access if leads should go there; your counsel’s yes before Live QR™ becomes ® (its registration is on the Supplemental Register); and a line in the privacy policy about microphone use. Press logos come from public sources: confirm you may show each one.
